The message: *Give yourself an opportunity to rest for once in your life and listen to your body. It is time for you to become illuminated and get to know yourself again. You are constantly in a process of development. You have gone through this experience, but you have lost, and were conscious enough to live through it while feeling very alienated. You do not know yourself anymore. By going through a period of self-discovery you will once again be a new person. Carve out a period of time to do this. Maybe go to the coast and walk along the water. There are many different ways you could accomplish this. Take the opportunity now to come up with a solution.
